Text of the Affidavit

My name is Jeffrey C. Siegel, Ph.D., ABPP. I am above the age of 18, and otherwise competent to make this affidavit. I have personal knowledge of the facts contained in this affidavit, and know them to be correct.

I am board-certified by the American Board of Professional Psychology as Specialist in both Clinical and Family Psychology. I have been elected as a Fellow of the American College of Forensic Psychology and the American Psychological Association. I received by B.A. degree in Psychology from the University of Texas at Austin in 1975, my M.A. degree in Psychology from Southern Methodist University in Dallas in 1977, and my Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology from the United States International University in San Diego, California in 1980.

I was appointed on July 24, 2013 by the 256th District Court of Dallas County to conduct a child custody evaluation in the matter involving Mr. Lauriston Crockett and Ms. Diem Nikki Ngo.

As part of the evaluation, I interviewed Ms. Ngo regarding an April 16, 2013 incident when she was injured from being run over by her car. It was my understanding from the interviews that Mr. Crockett was not involved in the accident.

Crocket Affidavit

I have been made aware that Ms. Ngo recently claimed that Mr. Crockett pulled her from the car and he ran over her. This is inconsistent with the information and descriptions she provided to me during the interviews during the custody evaluation.

The allegations by Ms. Ngo that Mr. Crockett pulled her from the car and ran over her would, in my opinion have a negative effect on the parent-child relationship between father and son and would contribute to alienation.

In my opinion, a parent that falsely accuses the other parent of such behavior, an attempt to cause serious bodily harm is being untruthful. Such behaviors are very serious and raise significant concerns about that parent's ability to serve as a primary parent.
